Winterization Preparation

Preparation of the housing unit building winterization of the building conserves energy and makes the living quarters more comfortable. Thermostats should be set no higher than 70° during the day and set back to 60° at night. Several methods that the resident can utilize to retain heat in a home include opening drapes at south facing windows during daylight hours to allow for passive solar heating, and sealing doors and windows to provide airtight enclosures. Call maintenance work order phone, 579-1605, if doors and windows admit cold outside air.

Remove hoses and drain outside faucets. Drain and store the hoses indoors or in storage sheds to prevent freezing and cracking. Residents are responsible for damage to water pipes and hoses due to failure to properly drain and winterize. Leaks may not appear until the outside temperature rises and melts frozen water in the faucets and water lines.

Snow must be cleared from sidewalks, steps and driveways within 24 hours of the end of the snowfall. Residents will be held responsible for any injuries caused by failure to clear snow. The area of responsibility is the same as for lawn/yard care and maintenance.

Ice above doorways and driveways should be removed to prevent injuries.

Residents shall rake leaves in the fall and place in bags for trash removal.

It is recommended that residents water lawns and shrubs at least twice during the Fall/Winter season. Snowfall at Fort Carson generally does not provide enough moisture to adequately nourish grass and shrubs. Remember to remove, drain and store hoses after use.

Change batteries in all smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors.

Field mice and other vermin often seek the warmth of basements and storage sheds. Mousetraps are available in the Self-Help Store.
